Now that we all have access to cheap video equipment and fast Internet connections, it seems that every moment of our lives we are preparing to become the next viral video hit. It's no different, and some people really go above and beyond to make a fun memory for themselves, and all the internet, to enjoy. That's funny, funny. When it comes to videos having fun at a wedding, the best approach is to leave inhibition at the door and prove that you dance as no one is watching! When this groom and his groom-in-law printed this version of Beyonce's Bachelor Ladies, no one was more surprised than her blushing bride! Viewed more than 97 million times on YouTube, it's one of the most viewed wedding dance videos of all time. The flawlessly choreographed video features bride and groom Jill and Kevin, together with all the wedding, chris brown singing Forever sounds highly stylized hip-hop dancing down the aisle. Thanks to the wedding and roughly 20 members of their nearly perfect dance moves, this video has only made jill and Kevin viral video sensations but basically gave birth to the kind of viral video wedding dance as we know it today. It's not technically a wedding dance -- it's Clay and Liz's 10th wedding dance. This wonderful couple is going through a whirlwind of fun songs and dance moves, from C&C Music Factory to Soulja Boy. Like most wedding dance videos, the video is kind of goofy, but what makes everything just awesome Clay and Liz can really, really dance. For the first minute of the video, newlyweds Norm and Renee gradually dance along to Jack Johnson's Better Together. When Michael Jackson's 1987 single The Way You Make Me Feel came out, the whole room turned into cheers. Then, the couple (and especially the shockingly good Norm) break off some complicated dance steps, they keep cheering up to the end of the room. Ryan and Leah Claxton showed this great sense of humor and their fantasy choreographed dance moves in this 2013 wedding video. As music transitions from pop to country to R&B, the couple put on a big show and make everyone laugh. This groom surprised the bride with a full choreography lip sync of Justin Bieber's Baby, and it was quite epic! At the end of the 1987 Patrick Swayze/Jennifer Grey film Dirty Dancing, dance equal parts are unforgettable for romance and cheese. That's the perfect routine for a wedding dance. The choreography of this dance is almost perfect and everything is so cute that you can melt in your seat. (I'm sorry about that.) As soon as dad walks up the dance floor and starts to grow tall over, you know this is going to be great! These two have serious moves. Follow the latest daily buzz with the BuzzFeed Daily newsletter! C'est en faisant n'importe quoi qu'on devient n'importe qui. yes, we didn't know what it meant during 10:00. The short sentence, which roughly means no matter what, no matter who this is, has recently become globalized. French Remi Gaillard just posted a new video covering dozens of cities. The joyous five minutes around the earth are real. Tons of people around the world danced around the shirt showing difficult expression. Gaillard is not a new place on YouTube. In fact, more than 1 billion (yes, billion) times its channel has about 2 million subscribers. He has posted videos of himself doing wonky things - throwing over animal costumes and mimicking public behavior, playing Mario Kart in real life, and competing against famous athletes. While Gaillard is as unpeased for anger as law enforcement, the dance T video is much more decent and completely legal (we think). And let's make one thing clear: These Travel Pants have no Sisterhood - mostly because there are so many more dances (and fortunately, hiccups about much fewer young men). We can't help but love weird jigs, and Sydney.Plus is a kangaroo-like dancing man, a winner in any of our video books featuring Daft Punk'S Around the World. September 30, 2015, 7:51PM UTC /Source: TODAY Contributor Terri PetersIt is not uncommon for babies to love music and dance, but when your baby prefers Pitbull and Taylor Swift to their ABC, there's not much left to do but let the beat open and fall. In a video that recently went viral, 17-month-old JP Peterson pitbull turns as loud as the Mother of Time of Our Lives, Stephanie, will let the car stereo. Like music blares, JP begins to show off his impressive dance moves. When Stephanie tries to turn off the radio, JP turns the radio around and continues to dance. JP's father, Adam Peterson, said he loved nothing more than the precious melodies of his son, who is now 22 months old. He loves music - he actually said 'music' as one of his first words, the father of Syracuse, Utah told TODAY Parents. He insists we have music all day... and he doesn't even need music to dance - we just drum a beat on the table and he can get his groove. She loves him and laughs as he left. JP Peterson isn't even 2, but Pitbull and Taylor Swift.Courtesnezaket like music by The Man PetersonIn Pitbull annex, JP Taylor adores Swift, and she was known to take down anything from Usher parks and recreation theme song. His playful and silly personality keeps us on our feet, peterson about his son, JP added that one of his favorite things is to play in the car, honking horns and listening to music. With the JP family, Stephanie and Adam Peterson.Courtescourtes man Peterson likes to push all the buttons on our car, and on that special day, he discovered how to turn on the volume button, Peterson said. We still watch (video) always laugh. My wife loves the end of it with her ass turning. It makes us laugh every time.
